[Message]

I am writing to add my voice to the growing number of Americans concerned with the widespread introduction of more and more genetically engineered foods into our marketplace.

I hope you will join the grassroots movement that will one day soon rival the power displayed by the movements against genetically modified foods in Europe, Japan and India.

These "foods" should be banned completely until the long-term safety to humans, other species, and the environment has been determined. And, if and when this does occur, these products should still be labeled so consumers can decide for themselves if they want to consumer genetically altered organisms.

Thank you!
